Winter is 'looming' ... as Tourism Ireland adds another new section to tapestry in week six of its global Game of Thrones® campaign

It's week 6 of Tourism Ireland's Game of Thrones® campaign, which is rolling out around the world to coincide with season 7, showcasing Northern Ireland to millions of fans. Tourism Ireland has released another time-lapse video of the weaving of the latest section of its Game of Thrones® tapestry, hanging in the Ulster Museum in Belfast.

This week's section includes a collection of scenes from "Eastwatch," episode 5 of season 7: in Dragonstone, Daenerys once again convenes her war council. There, Jon receives a raven from Winterfell, warning that the Night King and his army of Wights are marching towards Eastwatch-by-the-Sea. After secretly meeting with Jaime, Tyrion rendezvouses with Davos and Gendry to escape Kings Landing and return to Dragonstone. Jon, Jorah, Davos and Gendry are joined by the Hound, Beric Dondarrion, Thoros of Myr Tormund Giantsbane, as they lead an expedition beyond the Wall to capture a Wight – alive.

As well as the time-lapse video, Tourism Ireland has also released another cinemagraph (or "living" photograph) this week as part of this campaign. It's an animated version of a scene from season 6: in Meereen, the fights at Daznak's pit are interrupted by the Sons of the Harpy, who quickly surround Daenerys and her supporters. Just as all hope seems lost, Drogon arrives. After mounting him and dispatching many of the Sons, Daenerys and her dragon escape.

The Tourism Ireland campaign is under way across the world in 12 different markets – including Great Britain, the United States, Canada, Australia, France, Germany, Spain, Italy, the Netherlands, Scandinavia, India and the UAE.
